Proposals for an adult social care Prevention and Wellbeing Grant Fund

Why are we consulting?

The council wants to do as much as it can to prevent people in Leicester from developing social care needs.

This means trying to help people stay independent and in good health, both physically and mentally.

For most of the time, people stay healthy and independent by helping themselves and by getting support from family, friends and the community. In addition, the council helps people by providing universal services such as leisure facilities and neighbourhood services.

However, some people have specific needs, but these needs are not high enough to meet the eligibility criteria for social care support that is set by the government. For these people the council funds social care prevention services to help them reduce, avoid or delay the development of higher levels of need.

The council buys many prevention services from the voluntary and community sector. The voluntary sector has unique strengths in that it is close to communities, often it consists of communities working for themselves. The sector can be very flexible and innovative in understanding people's needs and responding to them effectively.

We want to make more of the ability of the voluntary sector in prevention.

This consultation is about how we do that in the future.

About the consultation

This consultation is intended to find out what people think about our proposals. No decisions have been made at this stage: it is important to us to hear what people think in order to shape the council's way forward in these areas.

The consultation is in two related parts:

- Setting up a new Prevention and Wellbeing Grant Fund (this survey)
- Changes to the way we commission existing prevention services (go to consultations.leicester.gov.uk/communications/ascpreventionservices)

You are welcome to respond to one or both of the consultations.

Prevention and Wellbeing Grant Fund

Many voluntary organisations have said that if they had more freedom to identify issues and develop solutions themselves, it would be more effective than the current system.

The proposed new grant fund will mean that voluntary and community sector organisations can bid to provide support for people based on their own ideas and evidence about what is needed and what works, without having to base their proposals on services specified by the council.

Any voluntary sector organisation will be able to bid into the new grant fund, including those who may face reductions as a result of the service changes proposed in our other survey.

We believe that this approach will:

- allow the council to focus its more prescriptive service on those who are most at risk of developing social care needs; and
- give the voluntary and community sector more flexibility to meet needs differently.
