5.4 Equalities Implications

Sound systems of public accountability are vital to effective management and in maintaining public confidence. The minimisation of losses to fraud and corruption is essential for ensuring that public resources are used for their intended purpose of providing services to its local residents.

There are no significant equality implications arising out of the report.

The continuing success of the Council's Anti-Fraud, Corruption and Bribery Policy will depend largely on the effectiveness of the programmed training and responsiveness of staff throughout the organisation and through publication, it is therefore important that this is accessible.
